Estate Plan Questionnaire

I. General Information

In making decisions concerning preparation of your Estate Plan, you should be aware of the following:

1. If the value of your estate is in excess of the federal estate tax exclusion amount (currently $5,490,000 for 2017), then you have an estate which is subject to federal estate taxes starting at a tax rate of 40% on the excess over $5,490,000. If you have a taxable estate, you may be able to make certain provisions in your estate plan which will minimize and/or defer federal estate taxes.
2. If you own property jointly with another person as “joint tenants with right of survivorship”, then your interest in that property will pass to the survivor upon your death. It will not pass according to the terms of your Estate Plan. If you own property jointly with another person without right of survivorship, then your interest in that property will pass according to the provisions in your Estate Plan. Beneficiary designations on life insurance policies, retirement plans, annuities, etc., will determine who receives those moneys upon your death, not the provisions of your Estate Plan, unless your estate or a trust you have established is named as the beneficiary.
3. Your Last Will and Testament disposes of assets that you have in your own name alone upon your death. As you may not know, it is your Will that is subject to administration by the Probate Court. That is why we often call a Will a “ticket to Probate Court. In addition to joint property and property with beneficiary designations, property held in a revocable living trust upon your death will not pass under the terms of your Will and will not be subject to probate administration. A Trust will save your heirs the time and expense of probate, including attorney fees and court costs.
4. If you leave an inheritance to a minor child under your Will, a conservator will need to be appointed by the Probate Court to manage the child’s inheritance until the child attains age 18. In order to hold funds for a child beyond age 18 and to avoid Probate Court intervention, you can establish a revocable living trust and tailor the provisions to best suit the needs of your child to provide for his or her health, support and education until he or she reaches an appropriate age.
